SENTENCE DEFERRED.

At Least One More Day's Respite
Will be Enjoyed by Peter Peterson.

CONVICTED MAN REMAINS CALM

Trial of Criminal Cases Abandoned for the Present to Accommodate Prosecuting Attorney.

Peter Peterson, the convicted assaulter of Miss Eliza Harris, will have at least one more day in which to meditate over the punishment Judge Coolidge will inflict upon him.

It was given out last Friday that Peterson would be sentenced today, but this morning Judge Coolidge told THE NEWS that sentence would not be pronounced for several days, for the reason he said, that Prosecutor Valentine and some of the jurors who convicted Peterson desired an interview with him before the fate of the doomed man was decided.

It is expected that the sentence will not be in excess of five years in the state penitentiary. There are conditions which will be urged upon the court with a view of securing clemency. The previous good character of Peterson and his limited intellectual faculties, will, it is expected, win mercy from the court. Peterson does not seem to be troubled over his fate. He appears like a person who does not comprehend the nature of his predicament. The sentence may be pronounced tomorrow.

The hearing of criminal cases was discontinued in the circuit court this morning on account of the inability of Prosecutor Valentine to be present by reason of numerous trials and examinations in criminal cases around the county. There are eight or ten more criminal cases to try in the circuit court.

The hearing of the civil case of Robert Delapp against John T. Beckwith is in progress today, Attorney James O'Hara appearing for the plaintiff and Attorney V. M. Gore for the defendant. The case involves an action for damages alleged to have been suffered by Delapp through the removal of the fence on his farm in Weesaw township in September, 1895, by Beckwith who was highway commissioner and wanted more land for highway purposes. This is the second trial of the case in the circuit court, the former trial resulting in a judgment for the defendant. The case was appealed and the supreme court reversed the judgment and ordered a retrial to ascertain the amount of the damage which must not be in excess of $100 by reason of the suit having been instituted in a justice court. Following is the jury: Fred Reum, Robert Bretschneider, P. O. Bowe, Nathan Williams, George W. Boone, Henry Bowerman, John W. Wilson, David L. Zaring, J. M. Raas, Robert B. Franklin, A. C. King, Joseph Richards.

CITY'S LOSS.

First National Bank Not Liable for Taxes.

Receiver Ainger has discovered that the defunct First national bank is not liable for the $800 tax assessed against it. The city will lose that amount and the bank be that much better off.

Arrangements have been made with the Farmers & Merchants bank to cash the checks soon to be given the depositors and that without exchange. It requires $20,000 in cash to furnish this accommodation.

ANOTHER FIGHT.

Sheriff Ferguson on Hand to Stop the Mill.

Sheriff Ferguson was falsely alarmed this morning by information that another prize fight was to come off in this city this morning. The sheriff got up at 2 o'clock with the intention of preventing the mill. He drove over here and then was advised that the contest had been declared off.

THE OLD JAIL.

Michigan City Figuring on Purchasing
It.

Michigan City, Ind. Nov. 15.—Attorney Frank Murdock, of Berrien Springs, was here Saturday negotiating for the sale to the city of the abandoned Berrien county jail. The city is talking of increasing its facilities for the detention of prisoners, a condition made necessary by the institution of a new court called the superior, and there is good prospect of the city closing for the Berrien county cage.

BURIED IN ROSES.

CASKET OF MRS. W. C. BASTAR
HID BY FLOWERS.

A Very Solemn Funeral—There Was an Abundance of Floral Tribute—
The Services.

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. W. C. Bastar, held at the family residence Sunday afternoon was largely attended and the services conducted by Revs. Wilson and Sahlin, were very impressive. The house was fairly filled with flowers and the casket could scarce be seen for the roses that covered it.

A quartette sang and Rev. J. N. Wilson followed with scripture selections relating to the resurrection. Rev. Sahlin read the following appropriate poem, after which he offered prayer: Sunrise! her feet have touched the hills of God; Heaven's morning air blows sweet upon her brow.

She sees the king in all his beauty now. And walks his courts with full salvation shod "Loo ting to ard sunset," even here she caught Prothetic hints of those far shining lands That lie beyond, like one who understands The sign, ere yet the miracle is wrought And so she went: ah, who here below, Watching the radiance of her upward flight, Who, who of us shall reach such lofty height, Or leave behind so fair an after-glow

Rev. Wilson preached a sermon from the text, "Comfort one another with these words." He said in part: "Death has visited us all. Every home has a vacant chair and every heart is longing for a voice that is still. The honors of this world, its wealth and its pleasures, can bring us no comfort. Comfort only is found in Jesus. He comforted the sisters of Lazarus with the promise of the resurrection. The same comfort remains for us—comfort to know that our dead do not cease to be but are sleeping in Jesus; comfort to know that they shall awake in the morning of eternity clad in glorified forms; that the same eyes, shining in the lustre of eternal life shall look into ours; that the same voices in tones of love will address us, that the same arms will enfold us in loving embrace.

"My friends, accept the same Savior our sister loved. Honor and serve him in life and you will have the same peaceful, happy, triumphant departure and be sustained and cheered by the presence of Him who said, 'I will never leave or forsake thee' and who will lighten the gloom of the valley and shadow of death."

Notwithstanding the bad roads and weather over a score of teams followed the remains to Crystal Springs. At the grave the two ministers conducted the solemn service.

NEW OFFICERS.

Are Elected by the M. E. Sunday School at St. Joseph.

Saturday night at the teachers' meeting held at the residence of A. B. Morse the following officers were elected for the Methodist Sunday school:

Superintendent—George B. Ferguson.
First assistant superintendent—A. B. Morse.
Second assistant superintendent—Anna Cooper.
Secretary—Willis Stevens.
Treasurer—Miss Kate Moon.
Chorister—W. B. Church.
Organist—Miss Anna Cooper.

AMONG THE CRIMINALS.

Alexander Pyle is having a hearing before Justice Cady this afternoon on the complaint of disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Delilah Partell and Dr. Dennis, who have been in the county jail awaiting trial, were taken to Niles this morning where their cases were heard. The former is charged with assault upon her husband and the latter with larceny. Mrs. Partell was held to the circuit court in the sum of $500 and was returned to the county jail. Dr. Dennis was discharged.

Sheriff Ferguson was advised this morning that Milo Keep, 19 years old, had escaped from the Kalamazoo jail Saturday night by cutting through the roof with a razor. He is wanted for assault with intent to kill and was being detained for preliminary hearing.

The trial of John Holland on the charge of larceny was not concluded in Justice Graves' court Saturday and an adjournment was taken until next Monday.

A BIG ADVANCE.

Citizens Owning Stock in Copper Mines are Happy.

George M. Thresher, fiscal agent for the Copper King mines of Arizona, has been advised of the advance from 20 cents to 50 cents per share. This is on account of ore tests from the direct sinking of the shafts. This will be pleasing news to some of our citizens who have purchased shares in this mine. Only a limited number of shares are offered at 50 cents as the reports made by the United States Geological survey and the cash received from the smelters for the first ore warrant the expectation of the stock going many times above par.

C. R. Hollis & Son, the jewelers, will hold a special sale on gold and steel spectacles next Saturday. 65746

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON ON THE FRUITS OF PARADISE.

The First Orchard Described in All Its Beauty and Perfection—The Lesson of Its Creation Before the Fish and Birds. Solomon's Orchards and Gardens.

[Copyright, 1897, by American Press Association.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Dr. Talmage finds the divine hand in all the dominions of the natural world, and this sermon presents religion in its most radiant attractiveness. The text is Genesis 1, 11, "The fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind."

It is Wednesday morning in paradise. The birds did not sing their opening piece nor the fish take their first swim until the following Friday. The solar and lunar lights did not break through the thick, chaotic fog of the world's manufacture until Thursday. Before that there was light, but it was electric light or phosphorescent light, not the light of sun or moon. But the botanical and pomological productions came on Wednesday—first the flowers and then the fruits. The veil of fog is lifted, and there stand the orchards. Watch the sudden maturity of the fruit. In our time pear trees must have two years before they bear fruit, and peach trees three years, and apple trees five years, but here instantly a complete orchard springs into life, all the branches bearing fruit. The insectile forces, which have been doing their worst to destroy the fruits for 6,000 years, had not yet begun their invasion. The curculio had not yet stung the plum, nor the caterpillar hurt the apple, nor had the phylloxera plague, which has devastated the vineyards of America and France, assailed the grapes, nor the borer perforated the wood, nor the aphides ruined the cherry, nor the grub punctured the nectarine, nor the blight struck the pear. There stood the first orchard, with a perfection of kind, and an exquisiteness of color, and a lushness of taste, and an affluence of production which it may take thousands of years more of study of the science of fruits to reproduce.

The Fruit Diet.

Why was the orchard created two days before the fish and birds and three days before the cattle? Among other things, to impress the world with a lesson it is too stupid to learn—that fruit diet is healthier than meat diet, and that the former must precede the latter. The reason there are in the world so many of the imbruted and sensual is that they have not improved by the mighty, unnoticed fact that the orchards of paradise preceded the herds and aviaries and fish ponds. Oh, those fruit-bearing trees on the banks of the Euphrates, and the Gihon, and the Hiddekel! I wonder not that the ancient Romans, ignorant of our God, adored Pomona, the goddess of fruits, and that all the sylvan deities were said to worship her, and that groves were set apart as her temples. You have thanked God for bread a thousand times. Have you thanked him for the fruits which he made the first course of food in the menu of the world's table—the acids of those fruits to keep the world's table from being insipid, and their sweets to keep it from being too sour?

At this autumnal season how the orchards breathe and glow, the leaves removed that the crimson or pink or saffron or the yellow or brown may the better appear, while the aromatics fill the air with invitation and reminiscence. As you pass through the orchard on these autumnal days and look up through the arms of the trees laden with fruit you hear thumping on the ground that which is fully ripe, and throwing your arms around the trunk you give a shake that sends down a shower of gold and fire on all sides of you. Pile up in baskets and barrels and bins and on shelves and tables the divine supply. But these orchards have been under the assault of at least 60 centuries—the storm, the droughts, the winters, the insectivora. What must the first orchard have been? And yet it is the explorer's evidence that on the site of that orchard there is not an apricot, or an apple, or an olive—nothing but desert and desolation. There is not enough to forage the explorer's horse, much less to feed his own hunger. In other words, that first orchard is a lost orchard. How did the proprietor and the proprietress of all that intercoluniation of fruitage let the rich splendor slip their possession? It was, as now, most of the orchards are lost—namely, by wanting more. Access they had to all the fig trees, apricots, walnuts, almonds, apples—bushes on bushes—and were forbidden the use of only one tree in the orchard. Not satisfied with all but one, they reached for that and lost the whole orchard. Go right down through the business marts of the great cities and find among the weighers and clerks and subordinates men who once commanded the commercial world. They had a whole orchard of successes, but they wanted just one more thing, one more house, or one more country seat, or one more store, or one more railroad, or one more million.

For One More Tree.

They clutched for that and lost all they had gained. For one more tree they lost a whole orchard. There are business men all around us worried nearly to death. The doctor tells them they ought to stop. Insomnia or indigestion or aching at the base of the brain or ungovernable nerves tell them they ought to stop. They really have enough for themselves and their families. Talk with them about their overwork and urge more prudence and longer rest and they say: "Yes, you are right. After I have accomplished one more thing that I have on my mind I will hand over my business to my sons and go to Europe and quit the kind of exhausting life I have been living for the last 30 years." Some morning you open your paper, and, looking at the death column, you find he suddenly departed this life. In trying to win just one more tree he lost the whole orchard.

Yonder is a man with many styles of innocent entertainment and amusement. He walks, he rides, he plays tennis in private alleys, he has books on his table, pictures on his wall and occasional outings, concerts, lectures, baseball tickets and the innumerable delights of friendship, but he wants a key to the place of dissolute convocation. He wants association with some member of a high family as reckless as he is affluent. He wants, instead of a quiet Sabbath, one of carousal. He wants the stimulus of strong drinks. He wants the permissions of a profligate life. The one membership, the one bad habit, the one carousal, robs him of all the possibilities and innocent enjoyments and noble inspirations of a lifetime. By one mouthful of forbidden fruit he loses a whole orchard of fruit unforbidden.

You see what an expensive thing it is. It costs a thousand times more than it is worth. As some of all kinds of temptations and all kinds of pleasures, it is a costly thing.

There was not only enough for the original family of two, but enough fruit fell ripe to the ground and was never picked up to supply whole towns and villages, if they had existed. But the infatuated couple turned away from all these other trees and faced this tree, and fruit of that they will have though it cost them all paradise.

The Edenic Story Repeated.

This story of Eden is rejected by some as an improbability, if not an impossibility, but nothing on earth is easier for me to believe than the truth of this Edenic story, for I have seen the same thing in this year of our Lord 1897. I could call them by name, if it were polite and righteous to do so, the men who have sacrificed a paradise on earth and a paradise in heaven for one sin. Their house went. Their library went. Their good name went. Their field of usefulness went. Their health went. Their immortal soul went. My friends, there is just one sin that will turn you out of paradise if you do not quit it. You know what it is, and God knows, and you had better drop the hand and arm lifted toward that boning board before you pluck your own ruin. When Adam stood on tiptoe and took in his right hand that one round peach or apricot or apple, satan reached up and pulled down the round, beautiful world of our present residence. Overworked artist, overwrought merchant, ambitious politician, avaricious speculator, better take that warning from Adam's orchard and stop before you put out for that one thing more.

But I turn from Adam's orchard to Solomon's orchard. With his own hand he writes, "I made me gardens and orchards." Not depending on the natural fall of rain, he irrigated those orchards. Pieces of the aqueduct that watered those gardens I have seen, and the reservoirs are as perfect as when thousands of years ago the mason's trowel smoothed the mortar over their gray surfaces. No orchard of olden or modern time, probably, ever had its thirst so well slaked. The largest of these reservoirs is 582 feet long, 207 feet wide and 50 feet deep. These reservoirs Solomon refers to when he says, "I made me pools of water, to water therewith the wood that bringeth forth trees." Solomon used to ride out to that orchard before breakfast. It gave him an appetite and something to think about all the day. Josephus, the historian, represents him as going out "early in the morning from Jerusalem to the famed rocks of Etam, a fertile region, delightful with paradises and running springs. Thither the king, in robes of white, rode in his chariot, escorted by a troop of mounted archers chosen for their youth and stature and clad in Tyrian purple, whose long hair, powdered with gold dust, sparkled in the sun."

After Solomon had taken his morning ride in these luxuriant orchards he would sit down and write those wonderful things in the Bible, drawing his illustrations from the fruits he had that very morning plucked or ridden under, and wishing to praise the coming Christ he says, "As the apple tree among the trees of the wood, so is my beloved." And wishing to describe the love of the church for her Lord, he writes, "Comfort me with apples, for I am sick of love," and desiring to make reference to the white hair of the octogenarian, and just before having noticed that the blossoms of the almond tree were white, he says of the aged man, "The almond tree shall flourish." The walnuts and the figs make Solomon's writings a divinely arranged fruit basket.

Religion a Luxury.

What mean Solomon's orchards and Solomon's gardens, for they seem to mingle, the two into one, flowers underfoot and pomegranates overhead? To me they suggest that religion is a luxury. All along the world has looked upon religion chiefly as a dire necessity—a lifeboat from the shipwreck, a ladder from the conflagration, a soft landing place after we have been shoved off the precipice of this planet. As a consequence so many have said, "We will await preparation for the future until the crash of the shipwreck, until the conflagration is in full blaze, until we reach the brink of the precipice." No doubt religion is inexpressibly important for the last exigency. But what do the apples and the figs and the melons and the pomegranates and the citron and the olives of Solomon's orchard mean? Luxury. They mean that our religion is the luscious, the aromatic, the pungent, the arborescent, the efflorescent, the foliaged, the umbrageous. They mean what Edward Payson meant when he declared, "If my happiness continues to increase, I cannot support it much longer." It means what Baba Padmanaji, a Hindu convert, meant when he said, "I long for my bed, not that I may sleep—I lie awake often and long—but to hold communion with my God."

It means what the old colored man said when he was accosted by the colporteur, "Uncle Jack, how are you?" "I is very painful in my knee, but, thank my heavenly Master, I'm cause to be thankful. My good Master just gib me nuf to make me humble." "And do you enjoy religion as much now, Uncle Jack, as when you could go to church and class meetings?" "Yes, I joys him more. Den I truss to do people, to do meetings, to do sament, and when I hear do hymn sing and do pray I feels glad. But all dis ain't like do good Lord in do heart, God's love here." It means sunrise instead of sundown. It means the Mennonite statue made to sing at the stroke of the morning light. It means Christ at the wedding in Cana. It means the "time of the slinging of birds is come." It means Jeremiah's "well watered garden." It means David's "oil of gladness." It means Isaiah's "bride and bridegroom." It means Luke's bad boy come home to his father's house. Worldly joy killed Leo X when he heard that Milan was captured. Talva died of joy when the Roman senate honored him. Diogenes died of joy because his three sons were crowned at the Olympian games. Sophocles died of joy over his literary successes. And religious joy has been too much for many a Christian and his soul has sped away on the wing of hosannas.

The Reply of Wellington.

An old and poor musician played so well one night before his king that the next morning when the musician awoke he found his table covered with golden cups and plates and a princely robe lying across the back of a chair and richly caparisoned horses were pawing at the doorway to take him through the street in imposing equipage. It was only a touch of what comes to every man who makes the Lord his portion, for he has waiting for him, direct from his king, robes, banquets, chariots, mansions, triumphs, and it is only a question of time when he shall wear them, drink them, ride in them, live in them and celebrate them.

You think religion is a good thing for a man. Oh, yes, but it is a costly thing.

Continued to Spread and Discharge Until Hood Was Purified by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My sister was afflicted with eruptions around her ears which kept getting worse and spreading until they became very painful. The sores would discharge and were exceedingly disagreeable. We made up our minds we must do something for her and we procured a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. She continued taking it until she was entirely cured." NADIA DUNNING, Concord, Wisconsin.

"After having tumors removed I was very weak. I had a headache all the time and a dreadful tired feeling. My daughter urged me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I did so, and after taking three bottles I was relieved of these troubles." E. V. ASTLE, Merrimack, Wisconsin.

N. W. Woodford Explains the Y. M. C. A. Mission at the Presbyterian Church.

HIS ADDRESS WAS INTERESTING

Rev. E. A. Hoffman Makes a Sensational Disclosure at the Conclusion of the Address

N. W. Woodford, the new assistant secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, delivered an interesting address in the Presbyterian church last evening. He demonstrated the possession of much information concerning the way to reach young men and indicated wisdom in the matter of conducting the Y. M. C. A. as to interest and enthrall them after they become members.

The salvation of the young man, the speaker said, was a question that touched every mother's heart and concerned the future of the country. The young men of today would soon be guiding the affairs of the nation and a government could not be maintained by men of bad moral character. The Y. M. C. A. had passed its experimental stage and had reached the point when it had become a power—for good or evil as its directors chose. It had been born in a prayer meeting, was nurtured in the church and maintained under the fundamental principles of religion.

It was the prayers of bereaved mothers and fathers that resulted in the founding of the Y. M. C. A. They had prayed for God to watch over their wayward sons and he answered their prayers by providing the Y. M. C. A. The young man, the speaker said, was the most neglected and most neglected in the condition he was found by the association. He was impulsive, despised formalities, hated hypocrisy and abhorred shams and cant. They were tempted from their schooldays to the grave. They were born with a natural desire for a good time, and it required a careful study of their character before undertaking to restrain them with assurance that the undertaking would prove successful.

They all have talent, said Mr. Woodford's verdict, but before that talent could be turned in the right direction their individuality must be studied and methods adopted which will not appeal to them as being revolting or abhorrent.

The speaker referred to the physical, social, intellectual and religious features of the association and declared that each must be carefully developed and maintained in order to have a successful association.

Rev. E. A. Hoffman supplemented Mr. Woodford's address with a very sensational disclosure. As illustrative of the crying need for a vigorous crusade by the Y. M. C. A. and churches in Benton Harbor Mr. Hoffman stated that he had been informed that in St. Joseph last Sunday evening over 100 young men were engaged in gambling.

New Presiding Elder.

Rev. Dr. Van Schoick, the new presiding elder of the Niles district, preached at the Methodist church Sunday morning and captivated the congregation. His text was "My God will supply all your needs according to his riches in grace in Christ Jesus." Dr. Van Schoick is an eloquent speaker and in everything he is optimistic. His sermon was full of cheer and helpfulness.

Sphere of Woman.

The second Sunday evening in each month Dr. Brooks preaches to the young people of the Congregational church. Last night he preached from the story of the creation of woman from a rib of man. The true sphere of woman, the preacher prettily concluded, was the walk side by side with man, not to be under his feet or to lord it over him. She was to be his inspiration to higher and nobler things.

THAT MOCK TRIAL

Prominent Y. M. C. A. Convicted by a Jury of Associates.

The mock murder trial at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Saturday evening furnished an interesting evening's entertainment.

The jury, consisting of twelve boys found the prisoner, J. Stanley Bailey, guilty of murder in the first degree for the killing of some imaginary character. Bailey declared his innocence on the stand, was able to prove an alibi but notwithstanding "Attorney" Barratt O'Hara hoodwinked the jury into rendering a verdict of guilty. In his cross examinations of witnesses the attorney for the defense, William Cameron, did some brilliant work.

The convicted man was not hung but given what is worse—a new trial.

VICTORIOUS.

Twin City Foot Ball Team Wins from Buchanan.

The Twin City foot ball players won another victory Saturday from Buchanan defeating that team by a score of 6 to 0.

At the rate the Twin City boys are gathering scalps they will win the county championship in a walk.

Next Saturday the local team will play the Eclipse Athletic association at the Broadway grounds and Thanksgiving day a match will be had with Niles.

Saturday's game was rather unsatisfactory, it being claimed by the members of the local team that the victory would have been pronounced had the decisions of the umpire been characterized by fairness.

ABOUT THE COUNTY.

Fair Plain.

Fair Plain, Nov. 15.—Mrs Nancy Clyburn has returned from Chicago. Her health is somewhat improved.

Seth Honeywell has been spending a week in Chicago. At present that city holds great attractions for Seth.

The social given for the benefit of the school was a success. Plenty of good things to eat. The program though short was very pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Brenner are the happy parents of an infant daughter.

Dr. Agnew's Ointment Cures Piles.—Itching, Bleeding, and Blind Piles. Comfort in one application. It cures in three to six nights. It cures all skin diseases, in young and old. A remedy beyond compare, and it never fails. 35 cents. Sold by H. L. Bird and Geo. M. Bell & Co.—43.

LYNCHED.

North Dakota People Murder Three Indians.

Williamsport, N. D., Nov. 15.—The murder of the Spicer family, near the village of Winona, in this county, on February 21 last, has been summarily avenged. Alexander Coudot, the Indian halfbreed; Paul Holytrack and Phillip Ireland, full-blooded Indians, were taken from the jail here Saturday night and lynched by a mob of white men.

The lynching had been coolly and carefully planned and was carried out without a hitch in the program. The lynchers worked quietly and with determination. They were in sufficient force to have overcome any resistance that might have been offered, and as there is no such thing as a militia company or other like body in the vicinity, and as there are only a few residents in the town, there was no one to offer any opposition.

There were two other men alleged to have been implicated in the murders for which the three were lynched and they were saved from the same fate only by the fact that they are confined in the Burleigh county jail at Bismarck, forty miles away.

Popular With all Classes.

Magnolia Blossom is the most popular female remedy of the day because it is not expensive and is within the reach of all classes. Scores of women say that a dollar box has benefited them more than fifty dollars spent for other remedies, and in many cases a single box has effected a cure for those who had doctored for years without obtaining relief; it enables women to treat themselves privately in their own homes, and is a simple and speedy cure for all the distressing ailments peculiar to women. Sold by all druggists.

OYSTERS.

I will sell my canned oysters until further notice, one can solid meat and one pound crackers for 20c. Remember my oysters are packed at my store and are fresh. No floats. Cheapest and best ever sold in Benton Harbor. Foot of Broadway. G. W. LYTLE.

THE CAR FERRIES.

PROVE THE SALVATION OF MICHIGAN RAILROADS.

The Chicago & West Michigan the Fourth Michigan Road to Resort to Car Ferries.

The Chicago & West Michigan railroad is the latest of the Michigan roads to put car ferries in commission across Lake Michigan, says a dispatch from Grand Rapids. The company has leased the ferryboat Shenango No. 2 of the United States & Ontario Steamship company and she will leave Conneaut one day next week for the trip around the lakes, due to arrive at Muskegon in time to begin business about December 1. The boat has a wooden hull, strongly built, with ice crushers fore and aft, and has been running on Lake Erie. It has a capacity of twenty-six loaded freight cars. It will make the round trip between Muskegon and Milwaukee every other day, going one day and returning the next, and if the business comes up to expectations another ferry will be put on next season. Preliminary to starting the ferry line the railroad company is building slips and side tracks at the mouth of the Muskegon lake and is arranging for a direct rail route to this city by way of Nunica and Fruitport to facilitate the freight traffic eastward. In this city it will make direct connections with the Detroit, Grand Rapids & Western railroad, which forms a part of the same system, for Detroit and eastern points.

There will be three other ferry lines running across the lake this winter and two lines of packet boats. The Ann Arbor road has two ferry boats running from Frankfort to Manitowoc. The Flint & Pere Marquette has two boats running from Ludington to Manitowoc, and also a packet from Ludington to Milwaukee. The Big Four will put on a ferry from Benton Harbor to Manitowoc or Milwaukee. The packet lines are the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee railroad boats from Grand Haven to Milwaukee, the Graham & Morton line from Benton Harbor to Milwaukee and the Graham Transportation company's boat from Muskegon to Milwaukee.

The ferries also are proving the salvation of some of the Michigan railroads, especially those in the northern part of the state. The northern Michigan roads were built for the most part when the country was still covered with virgin pine and hardwood. As the timber has been cleared up the amount of local freight to be moved has been reduced until the picking has become very scanty. The ferries give the roads a chance to reach out across the lakes into the western territory for business and the Ann Arbor and the Flint & Pere Marquette send empty freight cars to St. Paul and Minneapolis and up to Duluth for the sake of having them delivered to them on this side of the lake loaded for the eastern market.

Winter navigation of Lake Michigan is not so hazardous as it might appear. The ferry boats are as strongly built as timber and steel can make them, their weight makes them easy riders in a heavy sea and their construction reduces the danger from the waves to a minimum. The ice in midlake is never thick or dangerous even in the northern end of the lake, and that which does exist in extremely cold weather is easily broken by the ice crushers or by the weight of the boat. It is rarely that one of the ferries finds it necessary to defer or delay a trip on account of the weather and no accidents so far have occurred.

ALLEGAN HAS A SENSATION.

Dr. Stuch, the Village President, Arrested for Larceny.

Allegan, Nov. 15.—Dr. L. F. Stuch, president of the village, was arrested Saturday afternoon upon the complaint of E. T. Van Ostrand, one of our druggists, charged with embezzlement and larceny. He waived examination, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Wednesday next. Bail was fixed at $300. The doctor was supplied with a key to Van Ostrand's drug store and he was in the habit of going in there at any time and obtaining medicines for use in his practice. It is claimed that he not only took out medicine but cigars and other things, for which he rendered no account, in all amounting to several hundred dollars. These speculations are claimed to extend over a period of eight years.

Our 5th Christmas...

As we approach our 5th Christmas in Benton Harbor we wish to thank our many patrons for their appreciation of our efforts in the last four years. We try to merit and we study to please. If we have any critics remember that "by-standers" often see good moves on the checker boards of other players, but seldom even reach the "King Row" when they play themselves. We have "distanced" every competitor in Southwestern Michigan. Not only coming under the "wire" ahead, but having time to put our horse in the barn before the others reach the last quarter-mile post. But this Christmas will show a larger, finer and better assortment than ever before. Sensible, useful presents, no nonsense in our line. Goods are now coming in fast. Do not delay until the assortment is broken.

Our work is the best and we guarantee to make your goods wear one-fourth longer than any other laundry in this section, especially the so-called hand laundries, for they cannot avoid the use of chemicals which we have done away with by the use of our new WATER PURIFIER, which gives us an abundant supply of practically soft water. Do not be deceived by parties claiming to do the work all by hand, for their methods are very much more destructive to the linen than ours with our late improvements. We have had years of experience in both ways and know whereof we speak. If you will visit our laundry you will at once be convinced that our way of washing is the easiest possible on the goods. MONDAY, NOV. 15, 1897.

POSTMASTER General Gary has made his first annual report and in it he makes a strong argument in favor of the establishment of postal savings banks. The postmaster general believes that the work could be undertaken in connection with the money order department at a small increased expenditure.

LANSING and other cities are allowed to pay their annual taxes in two installments—one in July and the other in January. The laws should be so changed as to give the cities in this county the same privilege. Especially would it have been a privilege if Benton Harbor people had been allowed to pay their city tax last July. There would have been less worry and inconvenience by the failure of the First National bank.

Great Variety in Ladies' Garments—In Fur, Silk and Trimmings.

Velvet is to be much employed for outer garments this winter, being used for capes, jackets and long mantles. Heavy broche silks, matchless and striped silks will also serve the same purpose. Fur is considered an appropriate trimming for velvet and silk, as well as embroidery, galloon and chenille. The latter is used as embroidery or it forms a net or web over light silk. Capes are noticeably longer than they were last year, and are very much trimmed.

JACKET WRAP.

med, at least those made of velvet or silk. Cloth capes are not so heavily ornamented.

As an intermediate wrap between the cape and the close jacket many half long garments are seen this winter of velvet or silk. They are loose in part, but fitted to the figure at the back, and have large sleeves in the pelerine style. These mantles descend half way down the skirt, and are lavishly trimmed with ostrich feathers, fur, ribbon and embroidery. Some are gathered into an embroidered yoke. Others have a simulated bolero.

A certain number of velvet jackets are seen, but in the majority of cases cloth enjoys the preference. These cloth jackets are often made very rich and elegant with embroidery, fine braiding and similar trimmings. Russian and oriental embroideries in lively colors are largely employed on cloth, serving for revers, collars, pocket flaps, boleros and belts for blouses.

Little blouse jackets having a belt and a round or slashed basque are a feature of the season, and are trimmed with embroidery, passementerie, fur and galloon. They have a valois collar or are cut in tabs, the lining being of light or bright silk or satin.

A picture is given which shows a jacket wrap of black velvet. It is straight in front, but close fitting at the back. It is lavishly embroidered with jet and has jet embroidered epaulets, bordered with gray astrakhan. The collar is also edged with astrakhan. The caplike sleeves are large, and are lined, as is the entire garment, with old gold satin. The hat is of Russian green velvet, trimmed with black ostrich plumes.

MUSIC CARRIES AWAY.
Mr. Angelo Patricolo, the Pianist, a fine Artist.

By the anticipation everywhere manifested the grand concert to be given in the Congregational church in Benton Harbor Wednesday evening promises to be patronized by the society people of both cities in full force and every indication tends to show that a large audience will greet Mr. Angelo Patricolo, the eminent pianist. Attorney Cady has received notice from Halet & Davis that they will ship a concert grand piano for the occasion. Local musicians have heard him and all are enthusiastic. Miss Maude Brown of this city heard him in Chicago and says, "He is simply grand and carries one right away with his music. You lose yourself when listening to him."

Such an event is worth 50 cents to $1.00 in other cities but in order to give everyone an opportunity to hear so famous a pianist the price of admission will be 25 cents paid at the door. The other attractions will be worth the price of admission alone.

HAD A HOT TIME.

REV. GEORGE L. CADY BEFORE A GRAND JURY.

One of the Members of the Jury Was a Man He Was After But He Didn't Know Him.

Some time ago THE NEWS gave the particulars of the fight which the Rev. George L. Cady, formerly of this city, had waged against the Henry county fair in Illinois for selling licenses to gamblers.

The second act in the drama has just been played. Mr. Cady didn't wait for somebody else to do it, but he went before the grand jury himself to make complaint. Unfortunately, for his cause, one of the men whom he wanted indicted was a member of the grand jury, but the preacher was not aware of the fact. The Genesee Daily Arena gives this account of the affair:

The report is that there was a hot time on the grand jury at the last term. It is no secret that the Rev. G. L. Cady, pastor of the Genesee Congregational church, has desired to see the whirlers of the fortune wheel at the Cambridge Fair, and those responsible for it, pay the penalty for gambling. With this end in view, Rev. Cady boldly went before the grand jury and told the tale of outlawry as it occurred on the fair grounds. Now George W. Hutchinson was Superintendent of Privileges for the Fair and, perhaps as much as anybody, was responsible for the fortune wheel. Anyway this was the idea which prevailed in the mind of the plucky pastor. George was also a member of the grand jury. When the eloquent parson began pouring hot shot into the fair managers and George Hutchinson in particular, George didn't like it. The preacher didn't know the grand juror so sailed in. Hutchinson soon announced himself and then the battle was on. The other grand jurors considered it a show worth going miles to see. They held their sides and shouted. Still the dance went on. The referees have not reported as to which side was victorious, and this perhaps the world will never know. The proposition of the grand jury indicting one of its most prominent members was a new one and has its humorous aspects. Neither Hutchinson nor Cady have yet decided whether it was a joke or something else.

Dwarfing From Harsh Environment.

In Limousin there is a barren range of low hills which lies along the dividing line between the departments of Dordogne, Correze and Haute-Vienne, about half way between Perigueux and Limoges. The water courses show the location of these uplands. They extend over an area about 75 miles long and half as wide, wherein average human misery is most profound. Dense ignorance prevails. There is more illiteracy than in any other part of France. The contrast in stature, even with the low average of all the surrounding region, is clearly marked by the dark tint. There are sporadic bits of equal diminutiveness elsewhere to the south and west, but none is so extended or so extreme. Two-thirds of the men are below 5 feet 8 inches in height in some of the communes, and the women are three or more inches shorter even than this. One man in ten is below 4 feet 11 inches in stature.

This is not due to race, for several racial types are equally stunted in this way within the same area. It is primarily due to generations of subjection to a harsh climate, to a soil which is worthless for agriculture, to a steady diet of boiled chestnuts and stagnant water and to insanitary dwellings in the deep, narrow and damp valleys. Still further proof may be found to show that these people are not stunted by any hereditary influence, for it has been shown that children born here, but who migrate and grow up elsewhere, are normal in height, while those born elsewhere, but who are subject to this environment during the growing period of youth, are proportionately dwarfed. —Popular Science Monthly.

Relief in Six Hours

Disgusting Kidney and Bladder diseases removed in six hours by the "New South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great service on account of its speedy effectiveness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary tract.

In anything else than the Greek soldier is lacking. Even the Roman, however good at guerrilla warfare in the mountains, would probably feel this defect in a regular campaign. It is no uncommon thing to hear the word of command disputed or discussed on the parade ground or on the march. It probably would be the same on the battlefield. The Greek is too democratic in his tradition and character to admit the notion of unreasoning obedience to any superior, and, moreover, it is a serious difficulty that there is no recognized class in Greece from whom enough officers can be drawn. Some rise from the ranks, and no Greek can ever regard his companion as superior to himself. There is practically no middle class in Greece.

In the country all are equal, except village magnates, who would not think of entering the army, and if they did would not retain their purely local prestige. In Athens there are, indeed, plenty of rich and distinguished families, and from some of them the best officers of Greece have come, but the number of them is naturally limited in so small a country. Too many of the officers are merely loungers in boulevards and cafes, who probably despise their men, and for whom their men have no respect. —Saturday Review.

Neal Dow's First Temperance Work.

Neal Dow was 95 years old when he delivered his first temperance speech. It was at an anniversary supper of a fire company to which he belonged, and his strenuous opposition to the use of liquor was effective to that degree that the fire company adopted temperance as a principle. Later he prevailed upon the Maine Mechanics' Charitable association to forego the use of wine at its annual dinner.

At that time liquor was almost universally used in Maine. One of the curious customs of Portland in those days was the ringing of the town bell at 11 and at 4 o'clock by way of warning to mechanics that it was time to leave work and get a drink. This custom the young reformer succeeded in having abolished. Then he persuaded most of the Portland employers to discontinue supplying their men with liquor.

After his first successes Neal Dow felt that temperance was the most important cause of the age. It was owing largely to his efforts that the Young Men's Total Abstinence society of Portland was organized. Its first meeting, it is said, was held in the counting room of a distillery. —Harper's Weekly.

Former Instruments of Torture.

Instead of gymnastics or games, instruments of torture were used for modeling the figure of the young lady of half a century ago. A contemporary writer says that "could the modern schoolroom (1881) be preserved it would pass for a refined institution. There would be found stocks for the fingers (the chiroplast) and pulleys for the neck, with weights attached." Fanny Kemble, to whom nature had been by no means unkindly, was found wanting in deportment, and she writes that she wore a "back board made of steel, covered with red morocco, which consisted of a flat piece placed on my back and strapped down to my waist with a belt and secured at the top by two epaulets strapped over my shoulders. From the middle of this there rose a steel rod or spine with a steel collar, which encircled my throat, fastened behind." The machine proved a failure, and she was put under the tuition of a drill sergeant, who did for her all that was required. —"Social England."

She Saw Her.

Mr. Mann—Did you see that woman just as we crossed over?

Mrs. Mann—You mean the woman in the camel's hair gown and beaver jacket—the one who had on bronze shoes, a hat trimmed with fuchsias and heliotropes, with pink ribbons and a chiffon veil? No, I didn't notice her in particular. What were you going to say about her?—Boston Transcript.
